TWENTY-FIVE MILLION TV DOLLARS—Perry Como, who, as all know, started out as a barber, has signed the largest individual deal in television history—a $25 million, two-year contract with Kraft Foods. It is a $10 million increase over his present NBC contract. He must pay all time and production costs, and his program will switch to Wednesday night starting Sept. 30. Perry is shown barbering, singing, visiting the President and walking with wife and children. (Central Press)

Pipeline Developed For Tree Tapping

CHARDON, Ohio (UPI) — Farmers may soon be able to tap a maple tree by turning on a spigot. A plastic pipeline for gathering maple sap has been developed. It may make the aluminum buckets and plastic bags now being used as obsolete as the old-oak-bucket.

Tubes tapped into each tree are tied into a main pipeline which sends the sap pouring into centrally-located gathering tanks. Maple syrup production is a major farm industry in parts of northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. Farmers contend their maple syrup is just as good as that produced in Vermont.

LUCKY STREAK

pointing it at bartendermmmm BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—Judge Michael Zimmer conceded both men were lucky when Marvin Wynn, 31, pulled the trigger of a 38 caliber pistol twice while pointing it at bartender John Lewis' head and the gun misfired both times. "You're lucky too," Zimmer told Wynn. "You would have wound up in the electric chair. Now you'll just go to prison."

How They'll Learn Now And Pay Later Is Described

By GEORGE B. BROWN

United Press International
DES MOINES (UPI) — Educators throughout the country are eyeing Grinnell College's "learn now, pay later" plan for helping lower-income families finance a college education.

Howard R. Bowen, president of the 930-student college at Grinnell, Iowa, has received hundreds of letters from school officials inquiring about the installment plan. Grinnell plans to put the program into effect next September.

In one plan, regular monthly payment and billing carry no interest charges, but do have $1 per month "service fee" to cover the cost of bookkeeping and billing.

For example, a student enters the college, faced with paying $1,850, the yearly cost for tuition and dormitory space. Assuming a $200 scholarship or grant-in-aid and a small down payment, the student would be left with a balance of $1,650. This would be divided into 12 payments of $137.50 plus the monthly service fee.

A second plan spreads the cost of a four-year college course across a longer period of time. This is called an extended payment plan.

Bowen explained that under this method, payments can be extended from five to eight years.

For example, Bowen said a student's cost for four years at the school would come to $7,400. Assuming certain scholarships or other tuition remission devices, the balance would come to $5,000.

In this plan, Bowen explained, a small interest charge is added to monthly payments, in addition to the $1 service fee.

Total monthly payments would be $100.47 per month for five years, including an interest rate on the total amount of money, slightly more than one per cent.

Bowen said the payment plans are operated on a non-profit basis. Extra charges are aimed at reimbursing the college for its cost in administering the programs.

When parents wish to use an eight-year payment plan, the contract calls for payments to begin one year before the student enters college.

To protect the school, a parent using the extended payment plan must purchase an insurance policy which guarantees the college payment in case of the breadwinner's death.

According to what Bowen said the cost of the policy is only $2.88.

Several schools have used monthly payment plans for several years. However, the extended payment plan is believed to be the first of its kind operated by a college in the United States.

Some banks have instituted such a plan, but their costs generally are higher.

The president explained that the college plan will try to get students from "all economic ranges" of the country. He said rising costs have placed "unwarranted restrictions" on students who do not come from the upper economic bracket.

Payments plans were designed to fit into a "broad program" of loans, scholarships, grants-in-aid, and increased campus employment he explained.

Benton Battle With Jets Feature Tonite

By JAMES LEE HARMON
Ledger & Times Sports Writer

The First Region Basketball Tournament begins tonite and a second consecutive year that the crowd is expected to be on the hand at the Murray State Sports Arena when the Benton Indians, coached by Coach Bill Farris, open the play-off with rival North Marshall at 7:30.

It will be the fifth meeting between the two clubs this season with North Marshall holding a perfect 4-0 record. Only Fulton City, which was eliminated in the quarter-finals of the First District and by far the most important win, has pulled a surprise.

win over the seventh-ranked (state) Jets. This meeting tonight is the second consecutive year that the Benton Indians and Jets met in the district finals here and North took the win. Again for the second season in a row the two rival county teams meet in regional play. Last year, the Benton squad downed North in the championship game for a trip to the state tournament in Lexington. The general opinion of local fans seems to give North City, which was eliminated in the quarter-finals of the First District and by far the most important win, has pulled a surprise.

Walt Alston Says Things Going Well

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

It's so far so good today for Manager Walt Alston's program to rehabilitate the Los Angeles Dodgers' pitching staff.

Cynics may add it's also "so what" but that's all right with Alston, who thinks his pitchers can make the Dodgers a contender by rebounding from the "lost year" of 1958 and approximating their 1957 form.

A few statistics tell the bitter story of Alston's big problem last season. In 1957 the Dodgers staff led the league with a 3.35 earned run average and 18 shutouts while pitching 44 complete games. One year later virtually the same staff had a 4.47 e.r.t., worst in the National League, and pitched only seven shutouts and 30 complete games.

Pitchers Look Good

Alston believes the Los Angeles Coliseum's trick fence helped to destroy his pitchers' confidence. And so he is whipping it up today after Don Drysdale, Carl Erskine and Clem Labine turned in performances that would help the confidence of a bushier facing Ted Williams with the bases loaded.

Drysdale, Erskine and Labine combined Wednesday to pitch a 1-0 victory over the "Long Beach" squad, a team made up of veterans and farmhands. They didn't allow a single walk and permitted only three singles in the 7½-inning game.

The Baltimore Orioles also received good news from a key pitcher when Billy O'Dell reported his arm felt fine after a four-inning intra-squad game appearance. O'Dell, a 14-game winner and all-star game selection last year, left the Orioles in September because of a "sore and tired arm".

Miss Beale speaks on "Friends" at Euzelian Class.

Miss Capple Beale presented the devotional on "Friends" at Monday evening's meeting of the Euzelian Sunday School class of the First Baptist church. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. J. I. Hosick.

Miss Beale, in her talk, included a reading from the Bible, John 13:14-16. Mrs. Hosick, class president, presided at the business session. Thirty-five members attended. A party plate was served during the social hour by Group Seven with Mrs. Humphreys Key as captain. Other members of the group were Mesdames Connie Armstrong, L. A. Cathey, Opal Emerine, Lamer Farmer, Albert Hale, and J. I. Hosick.

Woodmen Circle Juniors Meet

The Woodmen Circle Juniors held their monthly meeting Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the American Legion Hall, with the president, Sherri Outland, presiding.

Roll call and minutes of the previous meeting were by the secretary, Jennie Lou Shelton, and the devotion was led by Betsy Blalock, the chaplain.

Linda Willoughby and Barbara Brown were honored with song and gifts during the birthday ceremony. Door prize went to Sue Tripp. Seventeen members were present.

During the social period plans were made for a bake sale on Saturday, March 21, to raise money to help defray expenses of a spring trip.

Meeting with the group Saturday as advisors were Mrs. B. Wall Melugin and Mrs. Goldie Curd. They went to the drug store for refreshments.

Miss Clara Eagle Shows Slides Of Trip To Sigmas

Miss Clara Eagle, head of the Art department, Murray State College, was guest speaker at Monday evening's meeting of the Sigma department of the Murray Woman's club.

Miss Eagle, introduced by program chairman, Mrs. O. B. Boone, Jr., showed slides of her recent trip to Europe and the Middle East.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Allen McCoy. Mrs. Lloyd Boyd, secretary, read the correspondence and minutes. Mrs. Bill Thurman, department chairman, presided.

Announcements were made concerning the Sigma department kindergarten and the department's project for the coming year, "A Better School Program." To work on this project, Mrs. Thurman appointed a committee of three: Mrs. Dorothy Nanny, chairman, and Mrs. Evelyn Wilson and Mrs. Martha Enix.

Mrs. Boone announced that the Music department style show would be held in the rectory hall at the college and that tickets were on sale.

Hostesses for the evening were Mesdames John Cavitt, Bennie Simmons, Joe R. Sims, and Robert Glenn Jeffrey.

Business Guild Christian Church Meets Monday Eve

The Business Guild of the Christian Church met Monday night and heard Mrs. Jerry Scates give the study selection, "The church in Argentina." Mrs. Scates was a guest speaker, substituting for a devotion by Mrs. Ben Trevathan. Mrs. James Johnson related her experiences at the recent Farm and Home Week held in Lexington, describing her participation in the style show, a highlight of the week's program.

The main lesson of the evening was "Sewing Machine Attachments," presented by a guest instructor, Mrs. Lowell King. Mrs. King familiarized the members with various machine attachments, pointing out their particular uses, and she then demonstrated by making sample ruffles, hems, lace and braid inserts.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostesses, Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. James Rogers, served coffee and salad to Mesdames Arthur Buchanan, Harold Hopper, Tip Miller, Allen Russell, Vernon Shown, Joe R. Sims, Sam Spiceland Ben Trevathan, A. G. Wilson, and James Johnson, and to the two guests, Mrs. King and Mrs. Earl Steele.

The April meeting will be held light of the week's program.

But the hard cold truth is that mice in America this year will cause nearly one billion dollars damage. In addition, there is the unknown cost of mouse-borne diseases such as typhus, infectious jaundice, amebiasis, and a mysterious modern disease — rickettsialpox, a fever accompanied by severe headache and a rash.

For every mouse in your house you pay $10 a year. A house mouse may trim its teeth by gnawing a hole in your door or wall, or in the leg of a chair. Books, clothing, papers and insulation may be damaged by female mice seeking nesting material.

Mice mature within three months of birth. A mature mouse can bear as many as 120 offspring a year. This means that one pair of mice left unmolested in your home might multiply several hundred times in 12 months.

A cat is not the answer to the mouse problem. Ordinarily cats serve only to frighten mice into hiding.

Professional mouse-proofing is the quickest way to obtain protection for your home. However, this is sometimes expensive and, in small towns, often not available.

Because of this, such experts as John Beck, a Department of Agriculture representative stationed at Ohio State University, suggest it is more practical for each family to take steps to protect its own home.

Good housekeeping is the first step. Mice thrive on filth. Make sure food is not left in the open and that scraps are placed in covered containers or garbage disposals. Sprinkle oats over the bait to make it more attractive.

Vary the bait so mice do not learn to associate danger with the smell of a particular food. This is easy, since mice like most foods that humans eat.

Arsenic and strychnine are quick killers. But because children or pets may unwittingly eat baited food, these poisons should only be used by professional exterminators.

For the average homeowner, it's safer to use Warfarin, Fyral, Fumarin, or D-Con. These are sold at drugstores. They are called anticoagulant poisons because they kill by preventing normal blood clotting.

To cut down chances of secondary poisoning, pets should be well-fed. Care should be taken to make the bait as unattractive as possible for cats and dogs. Never use meat as a bait.

For large infestations, the Department of Agriculture recommends a do-it-yourself bait mix: Mix 3 1/4 pounds corn meal, one pound oats, 1/4 pound powdered sugar 1/4 pound vegetable oil, and 1/4 pound anticoagulant poison.

Experts say this freshly-mixed poison will have a longer, stronger action in snipping your mice a "mickey."

Tip To Home Owner: How To Build A Better Mousetrap

By WILLIAM R. TEAGUE

This is a good time to begin planning how to de-mouse your house.

Many of us have been Disneyed into believing mice are humorous, harmless little creatures concerned only with kiddie clubs, talking ducks and goofy dogs.

But the hard cold truth is that mice in America this year will cause nearly one billion dollars damage. In addition, there is the unknown cost of mouse-borne diseases such as typhus, infectious jaundice, amebiasis, and a mysterious modern disease — rickettsialpox, a fever accompanied by severe headache and a rash.

She chose CASTLETON

HER DREAMS of being that gracious hostess will come true; CASTLETON china will be THE silent partner to her entertaining success.

Lovely true color designs, beautiful translucent china, a world-famous reputation for quality; these all belong to her with CASTLETON china. They will be yours, too, when you choose china by CASTLETON... it's a joy to live with.

Bridal Pattern of the Month

Shown at left... one of our best Bridal patterns. Our complete Bridal Registry is a welcomed service... to both the "Bride-to-be" and "Friends of the Bride." A registered "Bride-to-be" makes a happy Bride... she receives what she wants most.

We invite you to visit our "Bridal Center" — she will help you make the wisest choice.
